Starring Luke Perry, Elaine Hendrix, Jon Gries, Jimmi Simpson & LeAnn Rimes

An off-beat comedy of blackmail, robbery... and family values!

ATLANTA, February 17, 2010 – Shadowlight Pictures, in partnership with Phase 4 Films, is pleased to announce the North American release of the comedy feature “Good Intentions” on DVD March 9, 2010. Starring award-winning, multi-platinum country recording artist LeAnn Rimes (“Northern Lights”), and also includes Luke Perry (“Beverly Hills 90210”), Elaine Hendrix (“The Parent Trap”), Jon Gries (“Napoleon Dynamite”) and Jimmi Simpson (“Date Night”).

The Good Intentions Movie project is collaborating with the Cystinosis Research Network (CRN) to help raise awareness and funds for the disease. The Producers of the film became involved with CRN last year when they produced a video for CRN to use for education and fundraising. “When we learned about the disease and the families it affects, we wanted to do whatever we could to help the research efforts,” Sampson said.

Anyone interested in supporting the Cystinosis Research Network, can place an order for the film on the Good Intentions Movie website using the promotion code CYSTINOSIS. Fifteen percent of the proceeds will go to the CRN to assist with their continued education and research. Orders can be placed now at www.GoodIntentionsMovie.com.

Synopsis - Meet Etta Milford. Loving Wife. Doting Mother. Armed Robber. When Etta's husband blows their nest-egg on ill-conceived inventions, she secretly decides to take "investment" matters into her own hands and things quickly go awry. With their savings gone, her husband suspicious, and their children out of control, Etta concocts a scheme of unexpected proportion to get back their money and save her family. There are just a few things she has to do first, including blackmailing the sheriff and holding up the grocery store before little league practice.

Directed by Jim Issa, the project marks the feature film debut of Atlanta-based film production company Shadowlight Pictures, headed by producers Pamela Peacock and Richard Sampson. The film was shot on location in Georgia.

LeAnn Rimes also lends her talents to the “Good Intentions” soundtrack, which is an eclectic mix of major label artists and up-and-coming talent. Rimes has two songs in the film, including her Grammy-nominated “Nothin’ Better to Do.” The soundtrack also includes The Wrights, The Lovell Sisters and Pieta Brown. A variety of high-profile companies including eBay, SPANX, Sawhorse Outfitters and Sweetwater Brewery joined with the film as promotional and product placement sponsors.

About Shadowlight Pictures: Shadowlight Pictures is a feature film production company based in Atlanta. “Good Intentions” was a Top 50 script in 2003’s Project Greenlight, a participant in the 2004 Sundance Producer’s Conference and a 2008 selection for the IFP Narrative Rough Cut Film Lab.
